Dear Mr. Kahn:

Your letter of December 2, 1952, with its interesting inclosures, just reached me this morning. I am at a loss to explain the nature of the delay but traced it far enough to find that it got lost in the Christmas mail rush somewhere in the Post Office and not in this organization. Belated as my thanks may be, please accept them with my assurance that the publications you sent me will be studied with considerable interest. Later on we may wish to communicate further with you on the subject of "internal communications."

Reiterating my thanks, I am,

Sincerely,

WILLIAM F. FRIEDMAN
